Fight On Bus Proposal Launched

Chamber Of Commerce And City Council Vote To Oppose Application Of P.E.

The Chamber of Commerce and the city council yesterday were on record as opposing the petition of the Pacific Electric to discontinue its stub trolley service between Sierra Madre and San Marino.

A resolution opposing the railroad company's petition, which seeks to substitute busses in place of the present stub trolley service, was voted by the Chamber yesterday morning, following endorsement of its stand by the city council Wednesday night.

Copies of the Chamber's resolution and the council's action affirming the Chamber's stand will be immediately forwarded to the state railroad commission.

Chamber officials are now studying a projected letter to O. A. Smith of the P.E., in which the Chamber will reassert its unequivocal opposition to any change in the present transportation setup here unless the company can grant either improved service or lower fares.

It is understood that the qualification relative to "improved service" has reference to the suggestion of Paul N. Carter, of the Chamber's transportation committee, that the company include the Canyon Park district in its proposed bus service.

But busses connecting only the downtown station here and the San Marino junction, without taking in any of the residential area, would be anything but an "improvement" in service, the Chamber feels.

City Opposes Telephone Change

Opposition to any change in the present telephone setup involving Sierra Madre and the Santa Anita Oaks or Rancho Santa Anita district was voted yesterday morning by the Chamber of Commerce.

A resolution embodying the Chamber's stand on the matter will be drafted and forwarded to the state railroad commission.

Placing itself solidly behind the Chamber, the city council Wednesday night voted to send a similar resolution to the commission.

Observers predicted that the combined action of the two bodies will carry considerable weight with the commission which has before it a petition asking that the Santa Anita Oaks district be withdrawn from the Sierra Madre exchange and connected with Arcadia's service.

PTA Visions Another Bright Year

Fine Spirit Of Cooperation Seen As New Officers Assume Their Duties

Parent-Teacher work will function next year with much the same efficiency and facility as characterized the season of 1936-37 at the local school, judging from what transpired at Thursday's meeting. Installation of the new officers took place with the junior past president, Mrs. Boyd Keith, doing the honors.

Many officers and members of the old board were honored before this ceremony took place, and the whole affair assumed an air of great importance.

The outgoing president, Mrs. Gladys Albright, clad in a smart pastel lace dress, presented members of her board with corsages together with words of gratitude for their faithful services. They were: Mrs. Lee Shippey, who has been program chairman for two years; Miss Dorothy Moore, Miss Helen Wones, Mrs. Garrison, Mrs. Mabel L. Nicoloff, Mrs. Frank Naley, Mrs. Stanley Wood, Mrs. E. E. Hitchcock, Mrs. J. L. Woehler, Mrs. Isadore Fisher, Miss Elizabeth Steinberger, Miss Betty Newton and Miss Mildred C. Bolms.

The incoming officers who will be at the helm next year are: Mrs. J. Irish, president; Mrs. John L. Woehler, first vice-president; Mrs. Gladys Albright, 2nd vice-president; Mrs. E. E. Pulling, secretary; Miss Betty Newton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. E. E. Hitchcock, treasurer; Mrs. Catherine Dowling, historian; Mrs. Pat West, ways and means; and C. Hall Perry, auditor.

Mrs. Persis Roach, chairman of the recent Summer round-up, gave a brief survey of the work accomplished under this health ac-

City Buys Lot Next To Municipal Building

Looking towards eventual expansion of city hall premises, the city council Wednesday night authorized the purchase of the vacant lot just west of the city hall at a price of $1750. The property has been held by a Los Angeles bank.

It was pointed out that the lot is the only property available if it should be necessary to expand the city hall at some future time. Attention was also called to the fact that the lot could be used for future enlargement of the fire department's engine house.

Halt Work On Third WPA Job Here

Project, Just Rightly Started, Stops When Funds Declared Insufficient

Because the money appropriated for the project by the WPA has run out, city officials find themselves the possessors of a partly finished series of scale maps of the city—and no idea as to what the job will be completed if ever.

This latest example of the haphazard methods by which WPA projects are initiated and conducted was revealed yesterday at the city hall, where a total of three government projects, halted midway in the process of completion, now are pigeon-holed indefinitely.

Reindexing of city ordinances and a general reindexing of city records were the two other projects shelved when funds for the work ran out and there was no additional money forthcoming.

The map project envisioned a series of 135 scale-maps of the city, showing everything from houses to hedges. They were to be drawn to the scale of one inch equals 60 feet and were to show all streets, roads and alleys in 1200-foot sections. When finished they would be available for inspection and reference at the city hall.

About all that was accomplished however, was the first series, showing Orange Grove avenue from east to west city limits.

When the stop-work order was issued, Draftsman W. H. Reese, who settled here on the strength of WPA intimations that the job would last for an indefinite period, was abruptly transferred to Pomona where boondoggling funds are still being dished out. The two other WPA workers were shuttled over to projects in Monrovia.

Jolly Time Assured At The June 5 Fireman's Dance

There'll be a hot time in the old town the night of June 5. Raising the theoretical smoke—appropriately enough—will be the city's volunteer firemen.

The occasion is the blaze batters' gala first annual benefit dance.

Sierra Madreans have two good reasons for packing the Women's clubhouse one week from tomorrow night.

In the first place, they'll have the chance to see the entire department in their blue uniforms.

And in the second place, by attending the combination card party and dance they'll be expressing their appreciation of the arduous and highly important work of the city's fire fighters.

At the same time, they can renew acquaintances with the force, while newcomers, who haven't done so already, can meet the boys face to face.

For those who dance, a top-notch Los Angeles band, Chuck Anderson's Boys, will provide up-to-the-minute swing numbers and waltzes.

And for those who prefer entertainment a little less strenuous, there'll be card tables.

The dancing will get under way at 8:30 p.m. The card tables will be available one-half hour earlier, so that bridge players will have plenty of time to wind up lengthy rubbers. Prizes will be offered for high scores.

Proceeds from the affair will be devoted to the department's uniform and clothes fund.

Council Cancels 1921 Bond Issue

Steps to wipe one more bond issue off the city's books were taken by the city council Wednesday night.

In keeping with its policy of maintaining a minimum of bonded indebtedness, the city fathers voted to pay a total of $1030 in principal and interest payments, thus clearing up the last of their obligations on the 1921 fire apparatus 6 per cent bond issue.

The bond issue, which totaled $15,000, provided the funds to buy the city's big La France fire pumper which, in the course of its 15 years of use, has subdued blazes in many a worried citizen's home.

Bode Resigns As Rector Of Ascension

Plans Extended Trip Abroad With His Family—Eligible To Pension

After six years as rector of Church of the Ascension, Dean Arnold G. Bode is resigning to accept his pension and to make an extended trip to Europe, it was announced this week.

With their two daughters Dean and Mrs. Bode will leave here about August 1. They will return shortly before the Christmas holidays and will continue to make Sierra Madre their permanent home.

In their absence Rev. Franklin Miller, formerly assistant rector at All Saints, Pasadena, will assume charge of the Sierra Madre parish until Dean Bode's successor has been elected by the church vestry.

The Bodes plan to stay with Mrs. Bode's mother at Virginia Water, Surrey, near London, and hope to visit their son, Dr. Francis Bode, and his wife, Margaret Griebow Bode, in Florence, Italy, where Mrs. Bode is studying art.

Beginning his clerical labors in London's famous Whitechapel district, Dean Bode subsequently went to Australia, later coming to the United States.

This year's trip will be his first return to his native soil in 38 years.

The Dean is looking forward to many a chat with old-time friends with whom he has maintained a correspondence through the years.

Before coming to California Dean Bode was dean of the Episcopal Cathedral at Laramie, Wyo., and was also for some years professor of music at the Wyoming University.

Coming to Long Beach he built the imposing church at Seventh and Atlantic avenues there.

After some years at Anaheim and as organist and assistant rector at St. James, South Pasadena, he came to Sierra Madre six years ago.

Announcement of his resignation brought widespread expressions of regret, his cheery personality, combined with his capable management of the affairs of his church, having been a beacon light for years to his many parishioners.

Poppy Girls On Streets To-morrow

Flower Sale Proceeds Go To Disabled War Veterans And Their Families

Tomorrow, May 29, was designated in Sierra Madre by a proclamation issued yesterday by Mayor H. Clay Reavis. In the proclamation, Mayor Reavis called upon all citizens to observe the day by wearing memorial poppies to be sold on the streets by wives and daughters of veterans, in honor of the World War dead.

The poppy, that little red flower from "across the crosses row on row," which Americans wear each year to honor the World War dead, has become an important means of alleviating the sufferings resulting from the war, according to Mrs. Val Miller, poppy chairman of the American Legion Auxiliary, who is directing arrangements for the observance here.

From the poppy each year, the American Legion Auxiliary raises approximately $100,000 for the relief and rehabilitation of disabled veterans, and for the care of fatherless children of veterans.

Benefits to the disabled veterans begin long in advance of the distribution of the poppies on Poppy Day. Many hundreds receive employment in making the millions of little crepe paper flowers. Manufacture is started early in the winter and continues through the spring. This year poppies were made for the Auxiliary in 65 veterans' hospitals and poppy workrooms located in 40 states. The work is a God-send to the veterans employed, who receive little or no government compensation, meaning an opportunity to help support their families or to save a little money for the day when they leave the hospital and begin the difficult struggle to make a fresh start in life.

There will be a general closing of business establishments here next Monday, Memorial Day, the Merchants Association announces.

The regular holiday receipt of mail will be in at the postoffice at the usual time Monday morning, but it will be available to box-holders only. There will be no dispatch of mail during the day.

All Stores Here To Close On Monday

There will be a general closing of business establishments here next Monday, Memorial Day, the Merchants Association announces.

Need Flowers To Honor Heroes And Forgotten

Flowers are needed for decoration of the graves of heroes and the forgotten dead at the Sierra Madre cemetery before Memorial Day. Members of the American Legion have cleaned out the weeds. Members of the Legion Auxiliary have volunteered to pick, call for and place flowers on the last resting places of the departed. They ask flower lovers and home gardeners to help. In a letter to THE NEWS, Mrs. Helen Lovejoy, president of the Auxiliary says:

"We shall be so grateful for ever so few flowers, for they will help Sierra Madreans do so many beautiful things that I am sure no grave will be neglected—none in our quaint little silent section will be forgotten."

"We will go to any address and cut them, if necessary. Or we will call for them if a call is put in to Mrs. Jensen at phone 51. They may be left at the City Hall Sunday morning. We will decorate the graves Sunday afternoon."

Program For Memorial Day Completed

Oldsters and children will join hands next Monday—Memorial Day—to honor the memory of departed war veterans.

Reverent ceremonies, including invocation by Rev. Stewart R. Sheriff, a talk by Judge Wilbur F. Thayer and a benediction by Dean Arnold G. Bode, will be conducted at the cemetery, following the Memorial Day parade of veterans, school children and representatives of civic, social and fraternal organizations.

Sponsors of the day's observances are Sierra Madre Post No. 297, American Legion, and Sierra Madre Post 3208, Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The parade will assemble at Canyon Drive and Sierra Madre boulevard at 9:30 a.m. and then march to the cemetery.

The program following the invocation consists of roll call by Adj. Howard Cant of the Legion, song by the school children, singing of the Star Spangled Banner by the entire assembly, salute by the firing squad, and taps, played by Samuel Embree and Stanton Irvin.

Flowers will be placed on the graves of veterans by members of the Legion Auxiliary Sunday afternoon.

Observations

By Lee Shippey

THE thing to remember, when someone asks you to buy a poppy today, is that poppies are needed for the relief and rehabilitation of disabled veterans, and for the care of fatherless children of veterans. If you give a dime, say, for a poppy, part of the money goes direct to the veteran who made it, most of the rest to the care of the families of needy veterans and only one cent to administration. There are many sick and disabled veterans who have no other ability to earn money, and there are some who get no spending money through the whole year except what comes from the sale of poppies. And they only ask you to buy poppies once a year.

"THERE is a tide in the affairs of men which, taken at its flood, leads on to fortune." Had Shakespeare been a Sierra Madrean he might have written "in the affairs of towns." The Pacific Electric wishes to change its service here. The company is a friendly organization, seeking our good will, in spite of the fact that it seems to rob us blind in the matter of rates. But there are two sides to that. One living at or towards a beach can ride much farther and pay less service than we do. On the other hand, those of us who go down in the middle of the day often have private cars—a whole car to ourselves. Anyway, the company is ready to do what will please us if it sees its way clear to doing it, and we should let it know what we wish. Now is the time to trade. If we have to have busses, let us get something. Let us remind the company that not only Sierra Madre but all the people living this side of San Marino are affected, and that the population in this whole area is growing. I know several people who hate to drive to town in traffic, but do so because the service is so discouraging. We have good service at the rush hours and we sadly need better service at night, so that we can go to Los Angeles or Pasadena to see a show and not have to get home at 1 a.m.

45 Pupils To Graduate At Schools

Next Friday Marks Vacation Season At City And June 18 at St. Rita's

Taking one more step in the important business of growing up, thirty-five boys and girls will attend classes at the grammar school for the last time next Friday, June 4.

On that day, which also marks the close of the school year, they will wind up their elementary schooling, in preparation for attending classes next fall at Woodrow Wilson Junior High School. As usual, there will be no special exercises.

The sixth graders who will say goodbye to their teachers here are David Asawa, Edmund Blake, Burl Eubanks, Buddy Gadow, Harold Haldin, Russell Jensen, Duane Kennington, Earl Lalone, Lester McCarty, Howard Miller, Donald Nelson, Robert Penn, Robert Proctor, Harold Quick, Frank Shippey, Lyle Steward, Mario Uriarte, Roy Warden; Patricia Andrews, Lucile Clark, Ruth Coit, Gloria Dougherty, Jessica Hoshino, Georgine Norris, Nancy Perry, Marilyn Plan, Marjorie Pickett, Margarita Sandoval, Betty Mai Spillar, Margaret Starbuck, Joan Stover, Carol Strook, Jeanne Thayer, June Wilcox, Lois Wilson.

Ten boys and girls make up the departing class at St. Rita's parochial school, where graduation exercises will be held on Sunday, June 13. Vacation for pupils of the school will commence June 18.

The list of graduates: Rita Burns, Sylvia Colbert, Barbara Colligan, Ann Davidson, Loretta Delvecchi, Marion Edison, Jutta Haberichter, LaVau Kennedy, Virginia Lorenzini and Betty Thill.

Serving as first lieutenant of artillery in the 27th division from New York during the World War, he was detailed to accompany John S. Sargeant, the great portrait painter, on a tour of the front-line trenches when Sargeant was seeking "color" for his now-famous painting, "The Allies."

During his New York days Ames acquired considerable fame as a portrait photographer. At various times he was head of a school of portraiture in Pittsburgh and ran a correspondence art school in Chicago.

Born 67 years ago in Fairfield, Me., Ames had lived in California for 13 years. He was a member of Sierra Madre Post No. 297, American Legion.

Besides his wife, Frances R. Ames, a portrait painter of nationwide note, he leaves a brother, Dr. O. B. Ames, Fairfield, Me.

Services were conducted at 3 p.m. yesterday in the Little Church of the Flowers, Glendale. The body will be shipped to Fairfield for burial.

Cobb To Head All-Star Show Here

Chamber Of Commerce To Sponsor Benefit For Children's Plaza Home

A fast-moving variety show, headed by screen actor, author, and columnist Irving S. Cobb, and including a cast of notable stage and movie celebrities, will be offered by the Chamber of Commerce next June 26 at the grammar school auditorium.

The show, which will be emceed by Pat West, Chamber secretary, in his accustomed rib-tickling fashion, is for the benefit of a worthy project, the Children's Home Plaza Community Center.

Leo Carillo, Alan Dinehart, Mollie Britton and Billy (Sneezy) Gilbert are among the top-notch entertainers now being lined up by the Chamber committee, which includes Sydney Jewell, Harold Roberts and West.

With Perley Poore Sheehan in the role of emcee the school auditorium was comfortably filled for a brief entertainment program to usher in the night show that opened with Henry Shippey, ambitious young son of the author and columnist who produced his crowd a treat. He was followed by Gustav Rihder, Mrs. Leona Dawson Cole, Ralph Cheyney and Lucia Trent, and Helen Nomura who sang several songs in Japanese and English, accompanied by Yanika Asawa; and Dr. M. H. A. Peterson.

According to a list furnished THE NEWS by judges of the Hobby show, ribbons were distributed as follows:

Fine needle work, knitting, Osgood-Martin Shop, special W. P. A. Exhibit, special Kiwanis provided.

Two Accidents, Same Kind And At The Same Time, Injure Five In Motor Cars

Almost identical accidents, occurring at almost the same time, brought grief to two Sierra Madreans late Monday afternoon.

"Drizzling rain and attempted left-hand turns caused the trouble."

Driving west on Sierra Madre boulevard, Mrs. Dorothy H. Abbot, 23, of 629 Alta Vista Drive, apparently failed to see Harry Banarer, 54, of 1943 Pennsylvania avenue, Los Angeles, who was about to make a left-hand turn into the Standard Service Station at West Sierra Madre boulevard and Auburn avenue. She rammed into the right side of Banarer's car, riding in which were his wife, Mrs. Hilda Banarer, 41, and his young son, Effron.

Mrs. Banarer, who was thrown against the dashboard and suffered two broken ribs, was given first-aid treatment by Capt. Joe Swanson of the city's first-aid squad and Dr. M. H. A. Peterson. She was rushed to St. Luke's Hospital by Officer Arthur Johnson, who investigated the accident.

Mrs. Abbott and her passenger, Miss Opal Woods, 26, of 89 Bellfontain street, Pasadena, were taken to Dr. Peterson's office for treatment of scalp wounds.

In the other accident, Thomas M. Tarwater, 32, of 30 Windsor Lane, collided with a car driven by Mrs. Eulalia Jones Jackson, 26, of 2081 South Myrtle avenue, Monrovia. Cuts and bruises were sustained by Mrs. Jackson's passengers, her two-year-old daughter and Mrs. Earl Pabel, 44, of the Monrovia address. The accident occurred at Colorado street and Meredith avenue in Pasadena. Officers said a left-hand turn caused the crash.

New Playground Now In Use At The Grammar School

A new or greatly extended playground and a full-size tennis court yesterday were ready for use at the Sierra Madre grammar school grounds.

The tennis court has been brought up to full size, retaining walls have been built around the south end of the playground and around the north end of the school building, an imposing flight of steps has been installed leading down from the playground to the main building, and the grounds on the north end of the building have been hand graded.

The major share of the work was done to eliminate damage from rain water run-offs.

Although the WPA has withdrawn from the job, much machine grading of the grounds still remains to be done.

Art Colony Loses Noted Member

Sierra Madre's art colony yesterday mourned the death of one of its well-known and beloved members, Linwood Payson Ames.

A war veteran and a resident here, at 101 Bonita avenue, for four years, Ames died suddenly Tuesday noon of heart disease at the Sawtelle Veterans Hospital where he had been confined since the previous Friday.

Associated with more top-flight artists at one time or another than any other artist on the Coast, Ames was noted principally for his lithographs and woodblocks of horses.

Serving as first lieutenant of artillery in the 27th division from New York during the World War, he was detailed to accompany John S. Sargeant, the great portrait painter, on a tour of the front-line trenches when Sargeant was seeking "color" for his now-famous painting, "The Allies."

Young Sierra Madre Actor Draws First Playhouse Lead

His first lead role in a major Playhouse production, Sellwyn Myers, son of City Manager and Mrs. A. I. Myers, heads the cast of the Fulton Oursler-Aubrey Kennedy comedy, "Nude with Pineapple," which is slated for the Pasadena Community Playhouse stage, June 1 to June 12.

Myers plays a young man who wants to become a great artist. His chief obstacles are a wife and a father-in-law, and between the pair the boy's Rembrandt ambitions glimmer. Not until he is safely behind the bars of a sanitarium does the flame find tinder. The resultant scramble for glory makes "Nude with Pineapple" a howling evening. Myers drew an important part in this year's Ramona pageant and Gilmore Brown, Playhouse director, has predicted a brilliant career for him.

Must Withdraw From Pasadena School System To Extend Teaching Scope

Dealing a body blow to supporters of the plan to add a seventh grade to the Sierra Madre public school, Deputy County Counsel Curtis Smith, in an opinion delivered this week, declared that "there is no way at the present time" that the additional grade may be incorporated in the school system.

"We understand," Smith said, in a letter to Rudolph R. Hartman, of the school board, "that at the present time you are in the Pasadena Junior High School District."

"Under such circumstances, it is mandatory that they teach the seventh and eighth grades and there is no way that you may do so."

It was pointed out by opponents of the seventh grade idea that apparently the only way the grade could be added to the curriculum would be for the school to withdraw from the Pasadena Junior High District.

Opponents further solidified their position by pointing to passage this week by the state senate of Assembly Bill No. 1629, giving legal recognition to state junior colleges and the 6-4-4 plan.

The bill is generally hailed among educators as "a great milestone" in the development of the plan which provides for six elementary grades, four junior high school grades and four junior college grades.

BETTERMENTS CONTRACTED FOR BY PHONE COMPANY MEAN IMPROVED SERVICE

Improvements in local telephone service and equipment, calling for an expenditure of approximately $10,000, in addition to heavy outlays for new telephones, station wiring, line extensions and miscellaneous reconstruction work, were announced yesterday by O. A. Prest, division manager of the California Water & Telephone Co.

When completed, the work, which will require over 350 miles of copper wire in new cables alone, will provide the city with telephone service and equipment second to none.

A feature of the work will be the removal of the unsightly overhead wires along the north side of East Orange Grove avenue, in order to provide additional facilities as well as to improve the appearance of the street. Important improvements in equipment already made include three additional trunk lines to Pasadena and one additional trunk line to Monrovia.

Proposed improvements, contracted for, include:

1—Larger cable on Esperanza avenue from Baldwin to Hermosa avenue.

2—Larger cable on Baldwin avenue from Esperanza avenue to removal of the aerial wire.

3—Large cable on south side of East Orange Grove avenue and removal of aerial wires on north side of street.

4—Larger cable in Sierra Madre Canyon.

Several other smaller jobs are planned which will improve the looks of the streets, remove duplicate poles and improve service.

Improvements already made include:

1—Replacement of small cable and aerial wires with a 101-pair cable on Baldwin avenue from the company's office to Esperanza avenue.

2—Replacement of old untreated poles on Grand View avenue from Canyon avenue to Auburn avenue.

3—Replacement of aerial wires with cable on Grand View avenue from Mountain Trail avenue to Canyon avenue.

4—Addition of 20 lines and four cord circuits to the switchboard at the company's office.

The Lord shall preserve thee from all evil; he shall preserve thy soul.—Ps. cxxi.7.

LOOKING AHEAD

No reasonably well informed or thinking person was surprised at the action of Congress in refusing to give local authorities control of the work relief situation. True, local administrators would be best able to judge of the eligibility of persons seeking relief employment and to determine the work projects most necessary and desirable as means of affording relief, just as they would be better able to see that the projects were economically and properly carried out. But certainly not until after the next Congressional and probably not until after the next Presidential election will the administration pass up its control of the billions that will be spent. The barrel possibilities of the huge relief funds have been found to be without parallel and the administration has welded the WPA and relief forces into the greatest political asset this or any other country has ever known.

If the administration is letting go of or passing up any political possibilities we have yet to see it.

NOT SO REMOTE

Back in the old days when a corner was not a corner unless there was a saloon on it, the nation was warned that continued abuse of the drinking privilege would result in a law prohibiting any and all use of alcohol for internal purposes.

And the nation only laughed derisively, and drowned the admonitory voices in a bedlam of banging beer mugs.

What happened after that is now history—the miserable failure of the "noble experiment," arbitrary and complete prohibition. Today there is a deadly parallel in another type of threatening arbitrary legislation being whispered about here and there, having to do with automobiles.

It is that unless we find some way to check the alarming increase in traffic deaths, laws will be sought to compel manufacturers to build vehicles incapable of high speed. Imagine that! Autos which simply couldn't go over 40, for example, or 50 at the most.

But surely, you say, that is ridiculous—it couldn't happen. Well, those bewhiskered gentlemen of the old corner saloon were just as certain that the idea of a law to prohibit drinking was utterly ridiculous.

It looks as though we shall have to clamp down more heavily on speeders if we would keep another "noble experiment" in the way of legislation outlawing fast cars, from clamping down on us.

BE YOURSELF

Sought for weeks on a charge of absconding with $50,000 of the funds of a former employer, Mrs. Helen Harper, when arrested by New York Police, admitted that she had spent every dollar of her loot in an effort to keep on an equal footing with wealthy socialite friends at Great Neck, L.I. Just a new variation of the old story of trying to "keep up with the Joneses." The ancient Greeks said, "Be thyself!" Today's generation merely exclaims, "Be yourself!" Either way, it's good gospel. Usually what the Joneses have isn't important anyway, even to the Joneses. Many financial barons would trade all their riches for youth and a good stomach. Many society dowagers would gladly exchange their social position and their fine clothes for the youthful loveliness and true happiness of the girls who look down from the gallery on the ladies in their boxes.

DANGERS TO LIBERTY

"Experience should teach us to be most on guard to protect liberty when purposes of government are beneficent. Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded persons. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well-meaning, but without understanding."

—Associate Justice Brandeis Holy Day—not holiday.

Case And Comment

By Chas. B. Shovalter

GREATER love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends (John 15:13); and with equal truth and justice it may be said: Greater love and sacrifice hath no man shown, that a man lay down his life for his country.

And so with these thoughts uppermost in our minds may we come to our annual Memorial Day, the day set apart by custom and by statute, when we will do well to pause and pay tribute to the hallowed memory of the Nation's Silent Victims.

The custom has very properly been extended to include all our loved and honored dead, and as we go to their last resting place with flowers, and perhaps with tears and prayers may we somehow this year get a further conception of the spiritual values involved.

For as much as we contemplate, as much as we emulate the example of our illustrious and heroic dead, we contribute to the enrichment of our national life. And in the wisdom, in the courage, in the service, in the sacrifice of these our honored dead, we may perchance find the solution of the difficulties that beset us now. Certainly it will aid us to avoid total impoverishment of spirit, to ponder over these things, and assuredly, never so much as now, America needs a new birth of freedom, and her citizenship to be re-baptized in the spirit of Constitutional liberty.

More than all else we need a resurgence of militant Americanism, and it is through the public schools we should light the signal fires of freedom, teach, first and last, Americanism. Let no youth leave school without being thoroughly grounded in the history, the principles and the incalculable blessings of American liberty. Let the boys be trained soldiers of constitutional freedom, and the girls intelligent lovers of free men.

Memorial Day should be a time for self-examination. Am I worthy of this heritage from the fathers? Do I live up to the standard set by our self-sacrificing soldier dead? Have I, by my citizenship, kept faith with the defenders of the Republic?

Patriotism, love of country, reverence for the flag and what it stands for, are the noblest emotions, next to love for God, that can engage the human heart. And the greatest compensations are reserved for those who serve the most.

Therefore, we should most intelligently discriminate in our appraisal of the spiritual values as offered to our own special niche in the social order.

We cannot further dedicate, we cannot further consecrate, the lives we now hold in memorium—their loyal service and sacrifice did all that—but we can, by this observance, enrich our own lives to the betterment of the community in which we live.

And so on this Memorial Day it is quite expedient that we should take time to carefully examine and analyze the causes for which these our honored dead paid the last full measure of devotion. They died to establish on this continent a great nation. They died to preserve it. They died to perpetuate representative democracy and ordered liberty. They died to make the world safe for democracy and hell for dictators. They died to maintain government by law and not by men. They died to establish and perpetuate freedom of religion, of conscience, of enterprise, of speech, of assembly—in other words, the type of national life we have enjoyed for 150 years.

We must keep faith with them! How? We who remain must stand as a solid phalanx against those of high and low degree who now assault our liberties, and make known to them in unmistakable terms—"They shall not pass."

There are millions in our midst whose love for their country is measured only by what they can get out of it. Any appeal to their patriotism will be vain. They have none. They are apparently in an ascendancy now, but we must keep the faith that there are enough people who love their country to eventually bring it back to sound and orderly procedure.

Keeping faith with those who died for them, they will never submit to the rule of a dictator. They will never degrade themselves with the foul blot of communism. They will never be so dumb as to permit themselves to be governed by any out-moded, out-worn European nightmare. And also, if we know anything of the temper of the American people, they will not long pay tribute to the racketeer, the bandit, the highwayman now presuming to speak for American labor.

Let us keep faith with the dead. And as we go to their last resting place to commemorate with flowers, with eulogies, and with music, let us firmly resolve that they shall not have died in vain, and that we shall protect and defend our priceless heritage from them, at any cost. No man can fall too soon, if he suffer or if he fall, in the defense of his liberties and constitution of his country.

Memorial Day! Let us make it

Gaddin' Around

BILL PEET

EVERY weeded lot in Sierra Madre has been placarded—signs printed in emphatic language to "Destroy All Weeds." And this warning must be heeded or else—

Other small cities and towns adjacent to Sierra Madre are carrying on just such a clean-up campaign and over in Claremont, Ruma B. Ruhle bursts into verse as follows:

"The notice to destroy all weeds
Has spelled their doom from crown to base,
No longer shall their wind blown
creeds
Infest a dedicated place.

New blossoming cannot erase
The notice to destroy all weeds,
Though Jimson has a saintly face
And picture-vines bear stars for seeds.

Because they shared wild oats'
misdeeds,
With wild grass that set the pace
The notice to destroy all weeds
Takes up their tricks, throws
down the ace.

They feel no shame at their disgrace,
But flaunt their charms till wisdom
heads
The lifting of that roadside mace;
The notice to destroy all weeds.

Go after the weeds Mr. Property owner. Rip 'em up and do it now.

To me the most interesting feature of the annual Hobby show was the miniature airplane exhibits, tiny models, some of them capable of flying under their own power.

The airplane exhibitors were local boys in their teens, indicating that the younger generation is becoming plenty airplane minded. This is as it should be, because flying will eventually be made as safe as ground travel in a pullman car over one of our big railroad systems.

Already Sierra Madre boasts of a young flyer who is an instructor at the Alhambra airport—he is the son of Alfred James Dewey, well-known artist.

Razing of the old city hall last week caused old timers to pause and reflect, also to reminisce. They were here when the building was thrown open, a building thoroughly up to date in every way—then. To the old boys, every time a timber crashed to the ground it brought back memories. To the present younger generation the demolition of the building meant nothing but the removal of what they considered an eye sore—an old out-of-date structure that was a blot on the landscape.

Time passes quickly, conditions change, and all wooden buildings in every city and hamlet are being removed for up to date concrete and earthquake proof structures.

At this time of year, a rainy, gloomy weekend takes a lot of joy from life, especially the office employee, clerk or low salaried man who works like a Trojan from Monday to Saturday noon and then plans to bundle the family into the old' bus for a week end in the mountains or at the sea shore. Last Sunday was a gloomy day. Here's hoping we have no more of them for a long, long time.

TOWN PICKUPS

Give you one guess as to what happened to the curious puppy at the Pet show who poked his nose a bit close to a mother cat with four kittens... Fred Richter, whose one hobby is soccer football, was presented with a fine baby girl last week. The Richter tribe numbers eleven, and if they were all boys, Fred could place an entire family soccer team in the field and challenge the world... The Acme Wrecking Co., hired to raze the old town hall, placed one small ad in THE NEWS last week advertising building material for sale, and results were astounding and most gratifying, according to McEntire, the man in charge of the job. It pays to advertise in THE NEWS... Only a few hours before he rendered vocal selections at the Hobby show entertainment, Dr. M. H. A. Peterson had three teeth removed, but appeared to be in fine voice. I would not recommend this to aspiring vocalists, it might not work, but the doctor appears to be made of stern stuff, as they say... Our editor gets a bit of fan mail once in a while but the publicity chisellers have increased so greatly that he has ordered a new wastebasket that holds a ton. Every government project, state project, educational institution, fruit growers association and others have their publicity departments and all communications are sent to the newspapers, just to make life happier for the editor and publisher... More names are wanted for the little white dog officially adopted by the fire department as their mascot... Only feature lacking at the Pet Show was Sierra Madre's bell ringing woodpecker, who appears to be on a vacation... This Memorial Day will find only a very few of the old G.A.R. left throughout the United States.

ADIOS—Let's pull for a sunny weekend, and the baseball diamond we were promised.

The... Watch Tower

By Perley Poore Sheehan

FLIGHT. That was the essence of the Hobby Show. Not just mechanical flight. But the flight that takes us out of ourselves—"all God's chillun's got wings!" That sort of stuff, whether our hobby be stamps, or quilts, or sonnets. Recalling that Pegasus, hobby-horse of the poets, did have wings—with which he could fly to heaven itself. And looking over all those exhibits at the school-house, the other evening, we said to ourselves: "These too be poetry."

ESPECIALLY the beautiful airplane models. Amazing. From demonstration parts and finished motors right on up to miniature flightplanes properly powered. Mostly built by the very young. As if the race itself were to become young again—a true renaissance, a rebirth—as Greece was young in the days of Daedalus. Daedalus, you remember, forerunner of the Wrights. Made wings for himself out of feathers and wax; with which to escape from the island of Crete.

BUT since Daedalus was also accredited with the invention of wings of his were a mere poetic extension, as you might say, of the sail idea. You know—the words of the Psalmist: "If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea..." Lines that used to come back to us hot dawns, on some beach in a country far away, when the fishing-fleet put out to sea, red, yellow, brown. Samson sort of said, the Psalmist must have had in mind. They looked like wings. And bound for parts so utterly uttermost as they dissolved into the mist—toward the red wafer of a sun, over a sea that ran like oil—your soul would almost leave your body wanting to go along.

THAT'S the sort of flight, somewhat, we mean in connection with the hobby-show. Something to overcome the gravitational pull of the daily grind, the daily rut; something to make poets of us all. A hobby, with wings. To every man, or woman, or Pegasus. For at least an occasional flight to heaven; or, at any rate, an escape from your own little island of Crete—where some personal Minotaur is threatening to get you.

REMINDED us of an old cabinet-maker we used to know. In a Burgundy village. A village itself as old as—or older than—the Roman road that still serves as its main street and market place, with some of the original paving still there. An old workman; but a poet, the consummate artist. How he loved his craft. How he loved wood. We used to go out to the forest with him, such time as the urge would come to him to buy a tree. Some wild-cherry he'd long had in mind; or some whorled beech, or oak.

WOOD for some grandchild of his, he'd explain, who might take over his place some day. And wood—pardi! Wood had to be cured before it could be worked. How many years? More years than he would live, he'd tell us with a little laugh. Eight, ten; more if possible. He came from an ancient line of cabinet-makers, stemming from the Middle Ages, when members of the guild took oaths of right conduct—oaths as solemn as any judge of the Supreme Court might take today.

AND how he hated glue. Glue? Make no mistake! In the old days the masters of the guild would burn any work suspected of having been tainted with glue. Ah, no! Nothing but the tenon and the mortise. Grooved and shaped and fitted. With a patience, a skill, a complexity, and an ultimate perfection, to remind you of old Mother Nature herself.

SOMETHING about that old man—and something about the same sort of spirit that was his manifest in our Hobby Show—to make you feel that here was—Flight! Away from all this mean, and small and ugly. We know. There's that other side of life. Even Emerson admitted it. "I can reason down," he said, "or deny everything, except this perpetual belly; feed me must and will, and I cannot make him respectable." That's why we must all have hobbies—hobbies with wings. Hobbies are wings.

LETTERS from Readers

Editor of the Sierra Madre News:

How many residents of Sierra Madre realize that in the past ten years there have been 16 fires in the brush above the city or in structures in the chaparral, any one of which might have meant a major disaster except for the efficiency of our local fire department? On Saturday, June 5th, we shall have the opportunity to show our appreciation of the services of the 20 men in the volunteer Fire Department. Now, with the fire hazards so great for the next few months, is a good time to make appraisal of the services of these men.

Out of the earnings at the Wistaria Vine during the past eight years the firemen purchased two trucks and a resuscitator. Because of the increased efficiency and added equipment our local insurance rates were decreased 11 per cent, and it is estimated that the savings amounted annually to $1500 more than the entire annual cost of the department to the city. Several of the men have taken first aid training and they constitute a first aid crew equal to the best in Southern California.

All the members of the police department are also members of the fire department. It is a great asset to have 20 vigorous men trained to work together and available not only for fire fighting but for any major disaster. Their services were invaluable in the flood in Sierra Madre Canyon in 1926. In the Long Beach earthquake our men were on duty three whole days in the disaster region. In the great forest fire that started in the San Gabriel Canyon on Labor Day in 1924, burned over 55,000 acres and threatened to reach our own watershed, our men had a decisive part in getting the fire under control.

The city pays the department, as a whole, $150 per month, and this provides accident, health and life insurance for all the men. Each man buys his own uniform and equipment costing about $50. There is no personal compensation except for fires between 9 p.m. and 6 a.m., and then each man on duty receives $4.

For eight years the income at the Wistaria Vine has taken care of the expenses. Now that this is cut off the firemen propose to give a dance and card party at the Woman's clubhouse similar to the entertainment that raises funds for the Children's Christmas party. This is to be made an annual event for the benefit of the men themselves.

Some of the uniforms are wearing out. Other equipment is needed. At least $500 must be raised. This means that more than one thousand tickets must be sold. There will be no house-to-house solicitation. We who have been buying two tickets for the Christmas party must go to a fireman, or to the police department, or to the city clerk's office, and buy more than two tickets if we can possibly afford to do so.

A prompt and generous response will show the firemen that their services are appreciated and will give them courage and enthusiasm to carry them through the long, hard season ahead.

Do you recall the fire leaping up the slope of Mt. Wilson one Sunday morning in 1928? The situation seemed hopeless to most of us but our firemen saved our watershed and saved our city from the flood that would have followed, all the way from Carter avenue to Orange Grove. When you remember this get your tickets for June 5th, and be thankful for the opportunity to do something in return for the services of our volunteer firemen. E. D. BURBANK, 42 East Carter Avenue, Sierra Madre, May 25, 1937.

TIME FOR ACTION

Editor, the Sierra Madre News:

As a faithful reader of the "News," I desire to express my appreciation for the tenor of your editorials regarding the current Supreme Court issue, and for the space you are devoting toward proper respect for the continuance of our democratic form of government.

In these times when American institutions of government are being undermined by alien political philosophies, and crack-pots of all kinds who seek to destroy us, it is high time that we citizens who have faith in a democracy such as ours, take definite stand against such alien influences.

In New York, the League for Constitutional Government is making a splendid advance in this direction. Under separate cover, I am forwarding you one of their publications, "International 'New Dealism.'" The title of this pamphlet is self explanatory, and you will see a direct comparison is made between the platforms of the Communist International, the Communist Party of America and the Socialist Party, with New Deal legislation. The facts are presented without distortion of any kind, and leaves no doubt as to the course our present Administration is taking.

Many other factual documents are either published by the League, or distributed by them. I am informing many of my friends of their good work, but I wish it were possible to reach an even greater number than is possible by individual correspondence.

LESTER FENNEL, May 24, 1937.

Driving privileges of 1561 persons were revoked, cancelled or suspended during March, in California. Of this number 1236 were for drunken driving. Applications for licenses for the month were given as 98,475, an increase of 2,718 over the same period in 1936. Licenses issued were 88,644, or 264 fewer than the 1936 total. Applicants who failed to pass the tests were 4,990.

Residents of Sierra Madre received cash life insurance payments in 1936 equivalent to $20.57 per capita. Total payments to policy owners and beneficiaries of Sierra Madre were $72,000 as reported by the National Underwriters. This amount paid here included money paid to living policyholders as well as to beneficiaries as death claims. Life payments for this state in 1936 were $134,700,000.

Not only do they prohibit free speech in Germany and Italy. They prohibit free listening also. This week eight Germans begin prison terms of from two to six years because they were caught listening to radio programs from Moscow. And this week in Italy, the popular knows nothing of what is going on in Britain, because British newspapers have been banned and all news of their country withheld from the Italian press. By such acts as these, dictatorships admit their weakness. They concede their vulnerability to a free flow of thought and ideas.

Fifty thousand men, women and children doomed to die on the streets and highways of the nation during 1937! This is the tragic conclusion being drawn from figures just released by the American Automobile Association. Through the first quarter of this year the slaughter was 28 per cent greater than in the same period of 1936, and if the pace keeps up the appalling prophecy will come true.

A professor at Northwestern University, after an eight-year study of the nation's recreational habits, comes up with the conclusion that typical Americans have only four ways in which to have fun. These are, he says, listening to the radio, reading the newspapers, attending the movies and playing bridge. The good doctor reported that children eight years old engage in 37 activities a week, but at 16 have slumped to 20 activities. "Expression of their individual interests," he said, "is curtailed as maturity is reached, and the rapid transition to the second-hand recreation of the adult."

Gala Events Planned At St. Rita's

Many Affairs Planned For Pupils Before Vacation Season Begins

End-of-the-semester days are important ones for pupils at St. Rita's parochial school. The boys and girls will take part in a number of important affairs during the next few weeks.

Receiving their first Holy Communion, the school's youngsters will convene in a body at the 8 o'clock mass next Sunday morning. Appropriate hymns for the occasion will be sung by the junior choir.

A lively program will be staged by the children on June 9 at the parish hall.

The opening chorus, "Happy Days," will be sung by the graduating class of girls. Not to be outdone by the senior members of the school, the first and second grades will star in their much-loved rhythm orchestra.

To those who have never had the "rheumatiz," as well as to those who know by experience what it is, the third and fourth grades will present a tuneful action song under this title.

"A Day in Flowerdom," an operetta, is the grammar grades' contribution to the program. Parts of the flowers in the Queen's garden will be taken by the girls of these classes.

Following the graduation exercises June 13, details of which appear elsewhere in this week's NEWS, the gala school picnic will be held June 15.

President's Xmas Cards Sent Here To Delight Children

A huge batch of Easter, Christmas, New Years and birthday cards received by President Franklin Delano Roosevelt is being converted into scrap books for orphans and crippled children by Mrs. Harry F. Noake, 585 Manhattan avenue.

Assisted by the younger daughters of her neighborhood, Mrs. Noake is busy trimming and sorting the more than 1500 cards which arrived here the other day direct from the White House.

They were preceded by the following letter from M. A. Le Hand, the President's private secretary: "My dear Mrs. Noake: With reference to your letter of April 25 to the President, I have much pleasure in sending under separate cover a package of holiday cards to be used in the splendid work you are doing. Very sincerely yours, M. A. Le Hand."

FIRE FLAMES

By One of The Boys

THE moisture of the past week has aided greatly in retarding the fire hazard caused by dry weeds. Many people are trying to burn piles of brush regardless of the warnings they have been given of the danger. We must remember that the slightest spark can start a very disastrous fire, and sparks will float from a brush fire pile.

There have been many functions in firemen's circles of late and many of the local men have attended some of them. Just recently Vern Udell and Joe Swanson drove away back in the hills to a Forestry meeting which lasted away into the morning. Apparently Joe was enjoying the social part of the meeting to the fullest, while Vern got tired when the hands of the clock approached the small numbers. Vern never was much of a fellow to sing, but let Joe find anyone who is willing to sing Annie Laurie or Lock Lomond and he is tuned up for the night. Such was the case at this gathering and when Joe hit a high note in "Bonnie Annie Laurie," Vern hunted himself a comfortable cot and fell asleep. The singers were annoyed by a very obnoxious odor, which someone thought might be from the hot singing, but on close investigation, it was discovered that Vern was lying on a burning cot.

The Chief will have to work hard to compete with Harlan Gerlach when it comes to flowers and garden. Up in Harlan's yard can be seen a very nice layout of flowers of many varieties and colors. We have wondered where he got that nice seashore bronze.

Peace With Poverty Impossible

Kiwanians Told Of Hatreds Fostered Abroad By Around The World Tourist

"Until the world does away with poverty there can be no permanent peace."

This was the assertion of Al Stauffacher, past-president of the Claremont Kiwanians, speaking before the Kiwanis Club here Tuesday noon.

Drawing on observations gleaned from a recent round-the-world trip, Stauffacher declared that past civilizations have "sown the seeds of destruction" and that much of the old hatreds "remain in minds that are ready to enter strife at the word of a leader."

Asserting that one-half of the world goes to bed hungry, he said that if his listeners could look down from an airplane and see the world as it really is, they "would see the unequal distribution of the things of life."

"If we live a selfish life, it matters not if we die; but if we so live to help others, then we are of great importance," the speaker observed.

He stated it was his belief a permanent peace could be built, "but we must follow the Golden Rule and teachings of Christ."

Following Stauffacher's talk, it was revealed that Vice-President Roy Pickett will represent the club at the Kiwanis International convention at Indianapolis, Ind., June 20-23. Accompanied by Mrs. Pickett and their four daughters, he will stop over at Mrs. Pickett's former home, near Emporia, Kan., for a brief visit. The Picketts will leave Sierra Madre tomorrow.

I SINCERELY wish to thank the many friends who were so kind on the opening day of my Men's Shop.

Also the friends who sent such beautiful flowers. It was greatly appreciated.

Thank You

tivity, the first of its nature in Sierra Madre, giving a word of appreciation to all who materially helped in the cause.

Mrs. Al S. Myers, also gave her year's report along welfare lines, as did the other chairmen, including Mrs. Eite, room mother chairman, Mr. Symonds, representing the YMCA, told of the summer camp for boys and girls at Jenk's Lake.

Mrs. Albright eulogized the former assistance given by her Ways and Means chairman, Mrs. S. O. Steinberger, who moved to Los Angeles during the winter, but whose rains were so ably and cheerfully taken over by Mrs. J. L. Woehler, Mrs. Frank Naley, and Mrs. E. E. Hitchcock.

A delightful program featuring the 5th grade pupils in "Spanish Song of Old California" in costume together with members of other grades, formed the major portion of the entertainment. Mrs. Norris played in her capable fashion on the accordion, accompanying her daughter, Georgine, who danced a Spanish dance.

The writer presented the Press book of the year, a handsome volume bound in the inner bark of the mulberry tree and containing the minute stories of P.T.A. doings all year, a feat made possible through the good fellowship, encouragement, and deep interest displayed by the president, Mrs. Gladys Albright at all times; and of course, through the cooperation of the Sierra Madre News, which made many concessions.

Mrs. Roy Pickett spoke in behalf of coming "Poppy Day," urging everyone to buy the flaming little red flower from the girls on the streets.

Tea was served from a daintily appointed buffet table afterwards and goodbyes and similar wishes for the summer were heartily expressed.

Local Ball Team In Two Wins; Big Score

After getting away to a poor start by losing the first home game of the season, the Sierra Madre Merchants ball club defeated last week a team picked up from the San Gabriel Construction workers by 23 to 0, and on Wednesday night won from a Los Angeles outfit booked as the California Bank team. The score was 18 to 9.

Next Tuesday night on the school grounds the Merchants are scheduled to tackle a strong team from Los Angeles.

For the first time in seven years there was not a single Sierra Madrean in the crowd. It required two newspaper pages seven columns 20 inches long to carry the names and addresses.

Interesting Talker Addresses Bethany Women Tuesday

Rev. Leon I. Rosenberg, director of the Bethel Mission at Lodz, Poland, responded to the request of Rev. S. R. Sheriff at the Bethany Church Sunday morning service to be present for the Women's Missionary Society meeting Tuesday and appear on the morning program at 11 o'clock. Rev. Rosenberg is a most interesting speaker and is touring the western and middle western states.

The afternoon program begins at 1:30 with devotions led by Miss Frances Peltch, who is sailing soon for Alaska. Miss Martha Loid of the Ramadai Mukti Missions of India, is the afternoon speaker. Mrs. J. D. McAndrews and committee will have charge of the noon luncheon.

BIG FILM HITS AT THE UPTOWN THEATRE

Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur in Cecil B. DeMille's "The Plainsman" heads the program currently showing at the Pasadena Uptown Theatre. The supporting cast includes James Ellison, Charles Bickford and Helen Burgess. Hit No. 2 is "Stolen Holiday," starring the gorgeous and capable Kay Francis.

Billed as the surprise hit of 1937, "When Love is Young," with Virginia Bruce, Kent Taylor and Walter Brennan, opens Sunday. The companion feature is "Wife vs. Secretary," with Clark Gable, Myrna Loy and Jean Harlow.

Sierra Madre Entries Fare Well At Fair

Local Boys and Girls Take Many Prizes At 4-H Club Exhibition In El Monte

Woodrow Wilson Junior High School's 4-H Club had a lot to thank its Sierra Madre members for yesterday.

That was the opinion of the thousands of proud parents who jammed the El Monte packing plant building last weekend to view the eye-opening array of exhibits in the county's biggest and best 4-H Club Fair.

Close to 1000 entries were exhibited, the boys entering 478 and the girls, 500.

Pigeons and rabbits accounted for the major share of the ribbons won by local boys. In addition, Norman Jensen had a chance to sell a beautiful silver bar pigeon for $4, while Lorne Pratt was offered $12 for a prize doe rabbit and four little ones.

Both boys, entering into the spirit of the show, spent the night preceding the opening day sleeping on a pile of gunny sacks in the packing plant alongside their exhibits.

Following is the complete list of awards: Norman Jensen pigeons: four first, two seconds, plus the best pigeon in the show. Lorne Pratt—rabbits: four firsts, one second and two thirds, plus the best Flemish doe and buck in the show. For having the best rabbit display in the show, based on total points won, young Pratt was awarded a prize-winning Flemish doe.

John Coit—pigeons: four firsts, one second and one third, plus the best old bird in the show. Young Coit also won the pigeon-judging contest medal. Richard Twycross—chickens: third place award for Australorp hen. Wesley Alderson—chickens and rabbits: two firsts, one third and one fourth for rabbits and one second place award for rooster, plus the best New Zealand doe in the show. Harold Nelson—ducks: three firsts. Albert Karr—rabbits: two seconds, one third and one fourth.

Paul Sanders—chickens and rabbits: two first and one second for chickens and three thirds and one fourth for rabbits. Maurrye Norris—dresses, shorts and handkerchiefs: first place awards in shorts and handkerchief classes. Katherine and Charlene Norris—dresses.

PRIZE PICTURES AT LYRIC THEATRE

Featuring Paul Muni, of Academy award fame, "The Woman I Love" is a tense drama of World War days. Opening next Wednesday, June 2, is "Melody for Two," with James Melton and Patricia Ellis, and "Hills of Old Wyoming," starring William Boyd.

LOOKING AHEAD

No reasonably well informed or thinking person was surprised at the action of Congress in refusing to give local authorities control of the work relief situation. True, local administrators would be best able to judge of the eligibility of persons seeking relief employment and to determine the work projects most necessary and desirable as means of affording relief, just as they would be better able to see that the projects were economically and properly carried out. But certainly not until after the next Congressional and probably not until after the next Presidential election will the administration pass up its control of the billions that will be spent. The pork barrel possibilities of the huge relief funds have been found to be without parallel and the administration has welded the WPA and relief forces into the greatest political asset this or any other country has ever known.

If the administration is letting go of or passing up any political possibilities we have yet to see it.

NOT SO REMOTE

Back in the old days when a corner was a corner unless there was a saloon on it, the nation was warned that continued abuse of the drinking privilege would result in a law prohibiting any and all use of alcohol for internal purposes.

And the nation only laughed derisively, and drowned the admonitory voices in a bedlam of banging beer mugs.

What happened after that is now history—the miserable failure of the "noble experiment," arbitrary and complete prohibition.

Today there is a deadly parallel in another type of threatening arbitrary legislation being whispered about here and there, having to do with automobiles.

It is that unless we find some way to check the alarming increase in traffic deaths, laws will be sought to compel manufacturers to build vehicles incapable of high speed. Imagine that! Autos which simply couldn't go over 40, for example, or 50 at the most.

But surely, you say, that is ridiculous—it couldn't happen. Well, those bewhiskered gentlemen of the old corner saloon era were just as certain that the idea of a law to prohibit drinking was utterly ridiculous.

It looks as though we shall have to clamp down more heavily on speeders if we would keep another "noble experiment" in the way of legislation outlawing fast cars, from clamping down on us.

BE YOURSELF

Sought for weeks on a charge of absconding with $50,000 of the funds of a former employer, Mrs. Helen Harper, when arrested by New York Police, admitted that she had spent every dollar of her loot in an effort to keep on an equal footing with wealthy socialite friends at Great Neck, L.I. Just a new variation of the old story of trying to "keep up with the Joneses!" The ancient Greeks said, "Be thyself!" Today's generation merely exclaims, "Be yourself!" Either way, it's good gossip. Usually what the Joneses have isn't important anyway, even to the Joneses. Many financial barons would trade all their riches for a trade and a good stomach. Many society dowagers would gladly exchange their social position and their fine clothes for the youthful loveliness and true happiness of the girls who look down from the gallery on the ladies in their boxes.

DANGERS TO LIBERTY

"Experience should teach us to be most on guard to protect liberty when purposes of government are beneficent. Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded persons. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well-meaning, but without understanding."

—Associate Justice Brandeis

Case And Comment

By Chas. B. Showalter

GREATER love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends, (John 15:13); and with equal truth and justice it may be said—Greater love and sacrifice hath no man shown, that a man lay down his life for his country.

And so with these thoughts uppermost in our minds may we come to our annual Memorial Day, the day set apart by custom and by statute, when we will do well to pause and pay tribute to the hallowed memory of the Nation's Silent Victims.

The custom has very properly been extended to include all our loved and honored dead, and as we go to their last resting place with flowers, and perhaps with tears and prayers may we somehow this year get a further conception of the spiritual values involved.

For as much as we contemplate, as much as we emulate the example of our illustrious and heroic dead, we contribute to the enrichment of our national life. And in the service, in the sacrifice of these our honored dead, we may perchance find the solution of the difficulties that do beset us now. Certainly it will aid us to avoid total impoverishment of spirit, to ponder over these things, and assuredly, never so much as now, America needs a new birth of freedom, and her citizenship to be re-baptized in the spirit of Constitutional liberty.

More than all else we need a resurgence of militant Americanism, and it is through the public schools we should light the signal fires of freedom, teach, first and last, Americanism. Let no youth leave school without being thoroughly grounded in the history, the principles and the incalculable blessings of American liberty. Let the boys be trained soldiers of constitutional freedom, and the girls intelligent lovers of free men.

Memorial Day should be a time for self-examination. Am I worthy of this heritage from the fathers? Do I live up to the standard set by our self-sacrificing soldier dead? Have I, by my citizenship, kept faith with the defenders of the Republic?

Patriotism, love of country, reverence for the flag and what it stands for, are the noblest emotions, next to love for God, that can engage the human heart. And the greatest compensations are reserved for those who serve the most.

Therefore, we should most intelligently discriminate in our appraisal of the spiritual values offered to our own special niche in the social order.

We cannot further dedicate, we cannot further consecrate, we cannot now hold in memoriam all their loyal service and sacrifice did all—but we can, by this observance, enrich our own lives to the betterment of the community in which we live.

And so on this Memorial Day it is quite expedient that we should take time to carefully examine and analyze the causes for which these our honored dead paid the last full measure of devotion. They died to establish on this continent a great nation. They died to preserve it. They died to perpetuate representative democracy and ordered liberty. They died to make the world safe for democracy and hell for dictators. They died to maintain government by law and not by men. They died to establish and perpetuate freedom of religion, of conscience, of enterprise, of speech, of assembly—in other words, the type of national life we have enjoyed for 150 years.

We must keep faith with them! How? We who remain must stand as a solid phalanx against those of high and low degree who now assault our liberties, and make known to them in unmistakable terms—"They shall not pass."

There are millions in our midst whose love for their country is measured only by what they can get out of it. Any appeal to their patriotism would be vain. They have none. They are, apparently, in an ascendency now, but we must keep the faith that there are enough people who love their country to eventually bring it back to sound and orderly procedure.

Keeping faith with those who died for them, they will never submit to the rule of a dictator. They will never degrade themselves with the foul blot of communism. They will never be so dumb as to permit themselves to be governed by any out-moded, out-worn European nightmare. And also, if we know anything of the temper of the American people, they will not long pay tribute to the racketeer, the bandit, the highwayman now presuming to speak for American labor.

Let us keep faith with the dead. And as we go to their last resting place to commemorate with flowers, with eulogies, and with music, let us firmly resolve that they shall not have died in vain, and that we shall protect and defend our priceless heritage from them, at any cost. No man can suffer too much, and no man can fall too soon, if he suffer or if he fall, in the defense of his liberties and constitution of his country.

Memorial Day! Let us make it most on guard to protect liberty when purposes of government are beneficent. Men born to freedom are naturally alert to repel invasion of their liberty by evil-minded persons. The greatest dangers to liberty lurk in insidious encroachment by men of zeal, well-meaning, but without understanding."

Gaddin' Around

with
BILL PEET

EVERY weeded lot in Sierra Madre has been placarded—signs printed in emphatic language to "Destroy All Weeds." And this warning must be heeded or else—

Other small cities and towns adjacent to Sierra Madre are carrying on just such a clean-up campaign and over in Claremont, Runa B. Ruhle bursts into verse as follows:

"The notice to destroy all weeds
Has spelled their doom from
crown to base
No longer shall their wind blown
creeds
Infest a dedicated place.

New blossoming cannot erase
The notice to destroy all weeds,
Though Jimson has a saintly face
And picture-vines bear stars for seeds.

Because they shared wild oats' misdeeds,
With devil grass that set the pace
The notice to destroy all weeds
Takes up their tricks, throws
down the ace.

They feel no shame at their disgrace,
But flaunt their charms till wisdom
heads
The lifting of that roadside weed;
The notice to destroy all weeds.

Go after the weeds Mr. Property owner. Rip 'em up and do it now.

To me the most interesting feature of the annual Hobby show was the miniature airplane exhibits, tiny models, some of them capable of flying under their own power.

The airplane exhibitors were local boys in their teens, indicating that the younger generation is becoming plenty airplane minded. This is as it should be, because flying will eventually be made as safe as ground travel in a pulman car over one of our big railroad systems.

Already Sierra Madre boasts of a young flyer who is an instructor at the Alhambra airport—he is the son of Alfred James Dewey, well-known artist.

Razing of the old city hall last week caused old timers to pause and reflect, also to reminisce. They were here when the building was thrown open, a building every time a timber crashed to the ground it brought back memories. To the present younger generation the demolition of the building meant nothing but the removal of what they considered an eye sore—an old out-of-date structure that was a blot on the landscape.

Time passes quickly, conditions change, and all wooden buildings in every city and hamlet are being removed for up to date concrete and earthquake proof structures.

TOWN PICKUPS

At this time of year, a rainy, gloomy weekend takes a lot of joy from life, especially the office employee, clerk or low salaried man who works like a Trojan from Monday to Saturday noon and then plans to bundle the family into the old' bus for a week end in the mountains or at the sea shore. Last Sunday was a gloomy day. Here's hoping we have no more of them for a long, long time.

Give you one guess as to what happened to the curious puppy at the Pet show who poked his nose a bit close to a mother cat and then poked his nose at a kitten. Fred Richter, whose one hobby is soccer football, was presented with a fine baby girl last week. The Richter tribe numbers eleven, and if they were all boys, Fred could place an entire family soccer team in the field and challenge the world. . . . The Acme Wrecking Co., hired to raze the old town hall, placed one small ad in THE NEWS last week advertising building material for sale, and results were astounding and most gratifying, according to McEntire, the man in charge of the job. It pays to advertise in THE NEWS. . . . Only a few hours before he rendered vocal selections at the Hobby show entertainment, Dr. M. H. A. Peterson had three teeth removed, but appeared to be in fine voice. I would not recommend this to aspiring vocalists, it might not work, but the doctor appears to be made of stern stuff, as they say. . . . Our editor gets a bit of fan mail once in a while but the publicity chisellers have increased so greatly that he has ordered a new wastebasket that holds a ton.

Every government project, state project, educational institution, fruit growers association and others have their publicity departments and all communications are sent to the newspapers, just to make life happier for the editor and publisher. . . . More names are wanted for the little white dog officially adopted by the fire department as their mascot. . . . Only feature lacking at the Pet Show was Sierra Madre's bell ringing woodpecker, who appears to be on a vacation. . . . This Memorial Day will find only a very few of the old G.A.R. left throughout the United States.

ADIOS—Let's pull for a sunny weekend, and the baseball diamond we were promised.

The... Watch Tower

By Perley Poore Sheehan

FLIGHT. That was the essence of the Hobby Show. Not just mechanical flight. But the flight that takes us out of ourselves—"all God's chillun" got wings!" That sort of stuff, whether our hobby be stamps, or quilts, or sonnets. Recalling that Pegasus, hobby-horse of the poets, did have wings—with which he could fly to heaven itself. And looking over all those exhibits at the school-house, the other evening, we said to ourselves: "These too be poetry."

ESPECIALLY the beautiful airplane models. Amazing. From demonstration parts and miniature motors right on up to miniature airplanes properly powered. Mostly built by the very young. As if the race itself were to become young again—true renaissance, a rebirth—as Greece was young in the days of Daedalus. Daedalus, you remember, forerunner of the Wrights. Made wings for himself out of feathers and wax; with which to escape from the Island of Crete.

BUT since Daedalus was also accredited with the invention of sails, perhaps those wings of his were a mere poetic extension, as you might say, of the sail idea. You know—the words of the Psalmist: "If I take the wings of the morning, and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea." Lines that used to come back to us hot dawns on some beach in a country far away, when the fishing-fleet put out—lateen sails, red, yellow, brown. Same sort of sails the Psalmist must have had in mind. They looked like wings. And bound for parts so utterly uttermost as they dissolved into the sun, over a sea that ran like oil—your soul would almost leave your body wanting to go along.

THAT'S the sort of flight, somewhat, we mean in connection with the hobby-show. Something to overcome the gravitational pull of the daily grind, the daily rut; something to make poets of us all. A hobby, with wings. To every man, or woman, a Pegasus. For at least an occasional flight to heaven; or, at any rate, an escape from your own little Island of Crete—where some personal Minotaur is threatening to get you.

REMINING us of an old cabinet-maker we used to know. In a Burgundy village. A village itself as old as—or older than—the Roman road that still serves as its main street and place, with some of the original paving still there. An old workman, but a poet, the cabinet-maker. How he loved his craft. How he loved wood. We used to go out to the forest with him some time as the urge would come to him to buy a tree. Some wild-cherry he'd long had in mind; or some whorled beech, or oak.

WOOD for some grandchild of his, he'd explain, who might take over his place someday. And wood—pardi! Wood had to be cured before it could be worked. How many years? More years than he would live, he'd tell us with a little laugh. Eight, ten; more if possible. He came from an ancient line of cabinet-makers, stemming from the Middle Ages, when members of the guild took oaths of right conduct—oaths as solemn as any judge of the Supreme Court might take today.

AND how he hated glue. Glue? Malediction! In the old days the masters of the guild would burn any work suspected of having been tainted with glue. Ah, no! Nothing but the tenon and the mortise. Grooved and shaped and fitted. With a patience, a skill, a complexity, and an ultimate perfection, to remind you of old Mother Nature herself.

SOMETHING about that old man—and something about the same sort of spirit that was his manifest in our Hobby Show to make you feel that here was "Flight! Away from all that is mean, and small and ugly. We know. There's that other side of life. Even Emerson admitted it. "I can reason down," he said, "or deny everything, except this perpetual belly; feed he must and will, and I cannot make him respectable." That's why we must all have hobbies—hobbies with wings. Hobbies are wings.

LETTERS from Readers

Editor of the Sierra Madre News:

How many residents of Sierra Madre realize that in the past ten years there have been 16 fires in the brush above the city or in structures in the chaparral, any one of which might have meant a major disaster except for the efficiency of our local fire department? On Saturday, June 5th, we shall have the opportunity to show our appreciation of the services of the 20 men in the volunteer Fire Department. Now, with the fire hazards so great for the next few months, is a good time to make appraisal of the services of these men.

Out of the earnings at the Wistaria Vine during the past eight years the firemen purchased two trucks and a rescuator. Because of the increased efficiency and added equipment our local insurance rates were decreased 11 per cent, and it is estimated that the savings amounted annually to $1500 more than the annual cost of the department to the city. Several of the men have taken first aid training and they constitute a first aid crew equal to the best in Southern California.

All the members of the police department are also members of the fire department. It is a great asset to have 20 vigorous men trained to work together and available not only for fire fighting but for any major disaster. Their services were invaluable in the flood in Sierra Madre Canyon in 1926. In the Long Beach earthquake our men were on duty three whole days in the disaster region. In the great forest fire that started in the San Gabriel Canyon on Labor Day in 1924, burned over 55,000 acres and threatened to reach our own watershed, our men had a decisive part in getting the fire under control.

The city pays the department, as a whole, $150 per month, and this provides accident, health and life insurance for all the men. Each man buys his own uniform and equipment costing about $50. There is no personal compensation except for fires between 9 p.m. and 6 a.m., and then each man on duty receives $4.

For eight years the income at the Wistaria Vine has taken care of the expenses. Now that this is cut off the firemen propose to give a dance and card party at the Woman's clubhouse similar to the entertainment that raises funds for the Children's Christmas party. This is to be made an annual event for the benefit of the men themselves.

Some of the uniforms are wearing out. Other equipment is needed. At least $500 must be raised. This means that more than one thousand tickets must be sold. There will be no house-to-house solicitation. We who have been buying two tickets for the Christmas party must go to a fireman, or to the police department, or to the city clerk's office, and buy more than two tickets if we can possibly afford to do so.

A prompt and generous response will show the firemen that their services are appreciated and will give them courage and enthusiasm to carry them through the long, hard season ahead.

Do you recall the fire leaping up the slope of Mt. Wilson one Sunday morning in 1928? The situation seemed hopeless to most of us but our firemen saved our city from the floods that would have followed, all the way from Carter avenue to Orange Grove. When you remember this get your tickets for June 5th, and be thankful for the opportunity to do something in return for the services of our volunteer firemen.

E. D. BURBANK.

TIME FOR ACTION

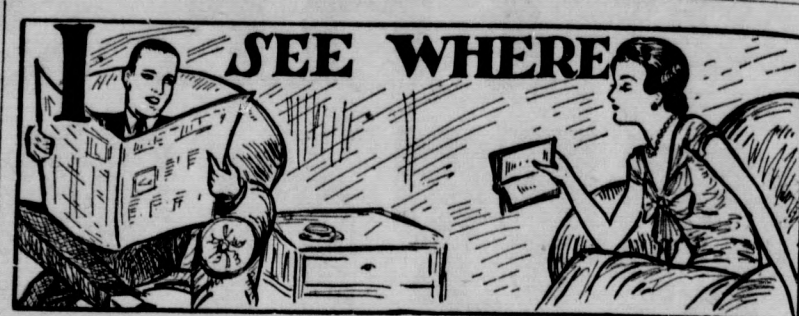

Editor,
The Sierra Madre News:
As a faithful reader of the "News," I desire to express my appreciation for the tenor of your editorials regarding the current Supreme Court issue, and for the space you are devoting toward proper respect for the continuance of our democratic form of government.

In these times when American institutions of government are being undermined by alien political philosophies, and crack-pots of all kinds who seek to destroy us, it is high time that we citizens who have faith in a democracy such as ours, take definite stand against such alien influences.

In New York, the League for Constitutional Government is making a splendid advance in this direction. Under separate cover, I am forwarding you one of their publications, "International New Dealism." The title of this pamphlet is self explanatory, and you will see a direct comparison is made between the platforms of the Communist International, the Communist Party of America and the Socialist Party, with New Deal legislation. The facts are presented without distortion of any kind, and leaves no doubt as to the course our present Administration is taking.

Many other factual documents are either published by the League, or distributed by them. I am informing many of my friends of their good work, but I wish it were possible to reach an even greater number than is possible by individual correspondence.

LESTER FENNEL.
May 24, 1937.

Driving privileges of 1561 persons were revoked, cancelled or suspended during March, in California. Of this number 1236 were for drunken driving. Applications for licenses for the month were given as 98,475, an increase of 2,718 over the same period in 1936. Licenses issued were 88,644, or 264 fewer than the 1936 total. Applicants who failed to pass the tests were 4,990.

Residents of Sierra Madre received cash life insurance payments in 1936 equivalent to $20.57 per capita. Total payments to policy owners and beneficiaries of Sierra Madre were $72,000 as reported by the National Underwriters. This amount paid here included money paid to living policyholders as well as to beneficiaries at death claims. Life payments for this state in 1936 were $134,700,000.

Not only do they prohibit free speech in Germany and Italy. They prohibit free listening also. This week eight Germans begin prison terms of from two to six years because they were caught listening to radio programs from Moscow. And this week in Italy, the populace knows nothing of what is going on in Britain, because British newspapers have been banned and all news of their country withheld from the Italian press.

By such acts as these, dictators admit their weakness. They concede their vulnerability to a free flow of thought and ideas.

Fifty thousand men, women and children doomed to die on the streets and highways of the nation during 1937! This is the tragic conclusion being drawn from figures just released by the American Automobile Association.

Through the first quarter of this year the slaughter was 28 per cent greater than in the same period of 1936, and if the pace keeps up the appalling prophecy will come true.

A professor at Northwestern University, after an eight-year study of the nation's recreational habits, comes up with the conclusion that typical Americans have only four ways in which to have fun. These are, he says, listening to the radio, reading the newspapers, attending the movies and playing bridge. The good doctor reported that children eight years old engage in 37 activities a week, but at 16 have slumped to 20 activities. "Expression of their individual interests," he said, "is curtailed as maturity is reached." "Expression of individual interests," he said, "is curtailed as maturity is reached." "Expression of individual interests," he said, "is curtailed as maturity is reached."

IT'S THE GREATEST FORD ECONOMY CAR!

BIG AND ROOMY AS THE BRILLIANT "85"—WITH PERFORMANCE THAT ONLY A V-8
CAN GIVE—YET OWNERS REPORT 22 TO 27 MILES PER GALLON OF GASOLINE

YOUR Ford Dealer now pre-economy first—and have the good things in driving, too! Here's roominess and beauty—safety and

And at the same time you get the greatest gasoline economy Ford used. And this car sells for 30 to 60 dollars less than any other car of comparable size in America. See it today. See for yourself how proud you'll be to own it—while it saves your money hand over fist!
